Draft Consumer Composite Investments (Designated Activities) Regulations 2024 Technical comments Due by 10 January 2024

Joint Response by industry participants and interested parties named in Annex 2

We are supportive of the government's commitment to replacing the EU-retained PRIIPS regulation and are pleased to submit the following response representing the views of the signatories listed in Annex 2. The joint proposal was put together in the interest of time and in order for the position of the sector to be understood more clearly. Therefore, it is kindly requested that each signature be treated as equivalent to an individual submission. We would also like to underscore that the list so far only includes those parties who have managed to obtain the requisite internal approvals over the limited time ahead of the 10 January deadline for submission.

Key recommendation: add closed-ended investment companies whose shares are publicly traded in the UK to the 'excluded products' category.

Summary of Reasons: The SI defines a CCI as an investment where the "amount repayable [to the investor] is subject to fluctuations because of exposure to ... the performance of one or more assets...". In the case of publicly traded/listed closed-ended investment companies (LCICs), which invariably have unlimited lives, there is no amount repayable to their investors in the sense of the investor being entitled to be repaid any amount on a given date either because the shares have a fixed duration, or the investor has a right to require redemption. In the ordinary course, therefore, investors can only realise their investments through a sale of their shares on the stock market at the prevailing market price, rather than by being repaid any amount by the LCIC.

In addition, LCICs are already subject to a robust regulatory disclosure regime through a combination of company law and the various legal and regulatory requirements relating to prospectuses, financial reporting, financial promotions and the listing, transparency and other rules relevant to the market on which their shares are traded.

As a consequence of being treated as excluded products, LCICs will not be required to comply with a cost disclosure regime which is misleading in the way in which it explains costs; but they will still provide the requisite transparency and detail as to costs as a result of those other legal and regulatory requirements. This will assist in restoring investment and retail access to important sectors and restore UK international competitiveness by harmonising the treatment of UK listed companies with established observable international market standards.

The selective inclusion of 'product costs' relating solely to public companies listed in the UK in aggregated portfolio costs and charges disclosures is fundamentally unsound in a market such as the UK where retail, professional and institutional investors have routine access to a wide range of international equity markets. This unequal treatment creates a range of perverse incentives and adverse outcomes that run contrary to the statutory objectives of UK regulation, including undermining fair competition, providing misleading information to consumers, and damaging market integrity.

Further detail:

- 1. Key concepts in the draft statutory instrument (SI) are the meaning of 'consumer composite investment' (CCI) in Regulation 2 and of 'excluded products' in Regulation 3. These replicate language from the definition of a PRIIP in Article 4 and the scope exemptions in Article 2(2) of the UK PRIIPs Regulation.
- 2. The intention under the UK's financial framework regime is to provide legislation containing principles and delegation of rule-making power to the FCA. One of the FCA's three primary objectives is to 'promote effective competition in the interests of consumer' and its secondary objective is to 'facilitate the international competitiveness and growth of the UK economy in the medium to long term'. In our view, these objectives would not be served if listed investment companies continue to be regarded as PRIIPs / CCIs, because such classification is not internationally competitive and generates misleading disclosures to consumers. The FCA also has a primary objective to 'protect the integrity of the UK financial system'. It would undermine the success of c. 40% of the FTSE 250 Index if the LCIC components are not treated in the manner we suggest in the future for the purposes of the CCI regime and we would hope that both HM Treasury and the FCA will appreciate the strength of our case and implement the changes we are proposing.
- 3. During the passage of the Financial Services and Markets Act 2023, Baroness Bowles drew attention to the issue of regulatory disclosure requirements and the fact that their application resulted in the overstatement of costs for listed investment companies. Since then, a large amount of evidence has been presented to HMT and Ministers regarding the long-standing misrepresentation to consumers of the costs of LCICs; and other Parliamentary colleagues, notably Baroness Altmann and John Baron MP, have joined Baroness Bowles in investigating the matter and having meetings with industry, industry associations, the FCA and Ministers.
- 4. As further explained in this Response, the unique characteristics of listed investment companies (described in paragraphs 5 to 7 below) necessitate the exclusion of LCICs from the various pieces of legislation that would otherwise create or contribute to misleading costs disclosures, for example in the UCITS KIID, in costs aggregation for MiFID disclosure purposes, and in the PRIIPs KID (or its equivalent under the CCI SI). However, currently (and in the draft CCI SI) LCICs are not so excluded. Our understanding is that the Government wishes to address this problem (including, in relation to the disclosure requirements in Articles 50 and 51 of the MiFID Org Regulation, by an SI to repeal relevant provisions, as explained in the Policy Note accompanying the CCI SI).<sup>1</sup>
- 5. The cost disclosure requirements in the CCI SI, just as in the existing PRIIPs legislation which it is intended to replace, apply to "an investment ... where the amount repayable is subject to fluctuations because of exposure to reference values or the performance of one or more assets which are not directly purchased by the retail investor". This language, taken from the UK PRIIPs Regulation, has been interpreted in the UK to capture shares in publicly traded closed-ended investment companies. However, LCICs do not make repayments to their investors. Instead, as closed-ended corporate entities with unlimited lives, in the ordinary course their investors can only realise their investments through a sale of their LCIC shares on the stock market; investors have no right to request any form of repayment.
- 6. We consider (as indicated by the FCA's definition of a "packaged product" and the reference to non-PRIIP packaged products in COBS 13.1) that the PRIIPs / CCI legislation is, or should be, directed to open-ended investment products and does not, and should not, apply to shares of LCICs. This is because, as noted above, there is no amount repayable by the LCIC to the investor in the sense of the investor being entitled to be paid any amount on a given date by the LCIC. Instead, the investor realises their investment by selling it on the stock market. Having consulted with Irish lawyers, we understand that it is for precisely this reason that Irish domiciled REITs have not been considered to be PRIIPs.

The costs of a listed investment company, unlike the costs of CCIs, do not affect or determine the value of an investor's investment in the way that an open-ended entity's costs do when the investor requests repayment of their investment at NAV, subject to specified deductions. The shares of LCICs are shares in limited companies, whether UK or non-UK PLCs or limited companies established in other jurisdictions. These companies do have certain operating costs, including the costs of their investment managers (either providing services pursuant to a contract with the LCIC or employed by the self-managed LCIC); and these costs are disclosed in the prospectuses, annual report and accounts and fact sheets prepared in accordance with company law, the various legal and regulatory requirements relating to prospectuses, financial reporting and financial promotions, and the relevant listing, transparency and other rules relevant to the market on which their shares are traded. Of critical importance to an understanding of LCICs and their investment characteristics is that the value that the market ascribes to the shares in an LCIC, and which the investor would receive when selling their shares and realising their investment, already takes into account the LCIC's operating costs.

<sup>1</sup> In the same way that we consider LCICs should not be PRIIPs / CCIs, we are hopeful that LCICs will be explicitly removed from costs aggregation under MiFID, on the grounds that the operating costs of these corporate vehicles are already reflected in their share price, that being the "value of the financial instrument" (to use the language of Annex II to the MiFID Org Regulation).

- 7. Evidence of the Irish (and we would assume other countries') approach can be seen from analysis of EMT disclosures and the ongoing charges figure (OCF), where only UK LCICs show a non-zero OCF (see Annex 1 for an example portfolio). The UK is an outlier jurisdiction in making listed investment companies subject to MiFID / PRIIPs costs disclosures requirements. It should also be noted that the US does not treat 'yield companies' differently from trading companies; that LCICs as listed companies are already subject to strong transparency rules; and that overall the UK interpretation has been damaging to international competitiveness both for LCICs and for the assets and companies in which they have invested. Given the precedent of previous FCA interpretation in the context of PRIIPs, it is now desirable to have specific exclusion of LCICs from the scope of the CCIs disclosure requirements for the avoidance of doubt and to ensure alignment with international treatment.
- 8. We note that the Association of Investment Companies (AIC), the industry trade body, has made written representation stating that the easiest resolution to the issues arising from the current cost disclosure requirements is to amend the scope of the CCI definition within the SI to exclude investment companies. We wish to add our support to this position. The most appropriate way of recognising the unique characteristics of LCICs and addressing the issue of misleading cost disclosures in respect of LCICs is to add LCICs to the list of excluded products under the CCI SI.

This could be effected, for example, by adding a new Article 3(n):

- "(n) closed-ended investment companies whose shares are admitted to trading on any market or venue operated by a United Kingdom recognised investment exchange."
- 9. More generally it may be better to specifically exclude all corporate shares, whether in 'trading' or 'investment' companies, rather than leave the point open to interpretation and/or uncertainty. Clearly, companies other than LCICs hold investments (including subsidiaries) that may influence their share price and that have not been directly purchased by a retail investor in the relevant company. There therefore appears both a risk of inconsistent treatment in respect of shares in corporates and a more generalised potential danger in the definition of a CCI if consistently interpreted.
- 10. The reason for the FCA including LCICs in its interpretation of PRIIPs and what should be covered by the definition of a PRIIP appears to be the designation of LCICs as 'alternative investment funds' (AIFs). The FCA has explained the definition of a PRIIP and how they interpret it here:

https://www.fca.org.uk/firms/priips-disclosure-key-information-documents

The FCA says that it considers that falling within the definition are:

- alternative investment funds that are not collective investment schemes, including shares or units in:
  - o an investment company or investment trust

Whereas it considers that falling outside the definition are:

 assets that are held directly by the retail investor, such as corporate shares or sovereign bonds From this, it can be seen that the FCA references the AIF status of LCICs, while at the same time acknowledging that they are not collective investment schemes. We assume that the FCA would take the same approach to interpreting the identical wording proposed in the definition of a CCI, hence the request that LCICs be categorised as excluded products.

11. The Government is aware that there are many interconnections between the 'waterfall' of individual retained EU law provisions, some of which flow from one to the next and others which reference back elsewhere or independently restate or introduce definitions. One of these retained provisions is the UK AIFMD, the requirements of which are deemed to apply to LCICs. At the time the AIFMD was introduced, the AIC was strongly of the view that listed investment companies should be excluded from its scope, and there was support for this view from other quarters. However, in the final rules as continue to be applied and interpreted in the UK, LCICs are considered to be AIFs.

Whether or not LCICs should be considered to be AIFs under UK AIFMD, they should not, in any event, properly be considered to be PRIIPs or CCIs, for the reasons set out above in paragraphs 5 to 7. There is no inherent reason that an AIF must necessarily be a PRIIP / CCI. To interlink these separate concepts is to bring into play the AIFMD and AIF designation (which, as noted above, was resisted) and combine it with a UK-specific interpretation of "amount repayable" (although there has been no discussion of that term in the context of LCICs), with the result of putting the UK at a disadvantage in terms of international competitiveness.

- 12. From experience and through research on the EMT database it appears that only UK investment companies notably those in the REITs category which exists internationally are shown as having ongoing fund manager costs consisting of the internal corporate costs already accounted for in the share price. Thus the UK has uniquely adopted this position on LCICs and, with the tightening up of application of the MiFID rules such that PRIIPs costs flowed through into the EMT, this was a significant factor in the crisis that has devastated the UK listed funds sector and made platforms select against LCICs as 'too expensive', notionally under considerations of Consumer Duty.
- 13. The FCA's explanation on the webpage referred to above in paragraph 10, using words such as 'consider', implies that there is flexibility available in the application of PRIIPS requirements; but during various discussions over the last few months the FCA has insisted that it does not have the latitude to resolve the costs issue. If that is indeed the case, whether by interpretive choice or through legislation, we urge that the changes we are proposing be made to exclude LCICs from the CCI regime altogether. In this way not only would achievement of the FCA's objectives be facilitated but the FCA would also be relieved of the obligation it would otherwise have to tailor the rules of the forthcoming CCI regime appropriately for LCICs so as to remove the misleading elements of cost disclosure which would be perpetuated if the existing PRIIPs disclosure regime is adopted without the appropriate changes being made.
